Although I'm retired, I continue to undertake research at my university. This provides me with a reason to keep attending and presenting papers at ISHS symposia, and to keep my knowledge base up to date. In this respect, reviewing research papers for Acta Horticulturae and eJHS has been invaluable. Through my participation in ISHS symposia and congresses, I am able to maintain contact with my international friends and development partners, and to engage with new and emerging researchers and doctoral candidates.
